PYTHIANS ARRIVE FOR CONVENTION

Public Session Tonight In The Auditorium of the Elks Home

BUSINESS TOMORROW

Election of Officers Tomorrow Afternoon. Pythian Sisters Will Meet Tomorrow Morning.

With delegates here from a majority of the eighty lodges of Knights of Pythias in Virginia, everything is in readiness for the opening of the fifty-third annual convention of the Knights of Pythias of Virginia in the auditorium of the Elks' Home at 8 o'clock tonight.

The opening session will be a public one and consist of addresses of welcome by Alexandrians which will be followed by responses by grand lodge officers as already published in the Gazette.

The advance guard of the delegates arived here last night and early morning trains and boats brought additional delegates.

It is expected that fully 300 will be here for the convention, including seventy-five for the annual meeting of the Pythian Sisters. The last named organization will convene tomorrow morning in the Pythian Temple on Cameron street. Immediately following the public session tonight the lodge will go into executive session and some preliminary work will be done in order to have everything in readiness for the first business session which will convene in the Elks' Home at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The convention will be presided over by S. B. Hammer, grand chancellor of Virginia.

It is expected that there will be 125 grand lodge officers here for the convention and probably seventy-five delegates will attend the Pythian Sisters convention.

Business sessions will open at a. m., tomorrow and adjourn at noon for lunch and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon the annual election of officers will take place.

At 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the Young Peoples' Building Osceola Lodge No. 47, Roanoke and Rathbone Lodge No. 93, of Norfolk, are to complete for the grand lodge trophy in conjunction with the conferring of the rank of Page in amplified form. There probably will be about twenty-five in each degree team.

The trophy last year was won by Osceola Lodge of Roanoke and it is necessary that it be won three consecutive times in order to become the property of the winner. The costumes worn by the competing teams will be quite elaborate.

The rank of Knight will be conferred Thursday night at 8 o'clock by the degree staff of Oriental Lodge No. 6, of this city, and Syracusian Lodge No. 10, of Washington, on a class of fifteen candidates in the Young Peoples' Building. Both the drill and conferring of the rank of Knight will be open only to Pythians.

It is expected that the city for the next convention will be decided upon Thursday and there is a keen contest on between Norfolk and Roanoke.

Local Pythians today have been kept busy meeting the visitors and making the final preparations for the convention.

PROHIBITION CASES

In the corporation court today, Judge Robinson Moncure presiding, a jury in the case of Peyton Ballenger, charged with an alleged violation of the prohibition law, gave a verdict to the effect that he was guilty of unlawfully having in his possession more alcoholic liquor than is prescribed by law and he was fined $100.

William Jones entered a plea of guilty to an alleged violation of the prohibition law and was fined $50 and sentenced to serve thirty days in jail.

ARITHMETIC TEACHERS ARE TO MEET

Fundamentals And Application To Practical Uses To Be Stressed

The duty of the schools to develop greater speed and accuracy in the simple fundamental processes of arithmetic which are used in the daily lives of the people, was emphasized at the conference of arithmetic teachers which was held at Lee School, Thursday, September 29. The complaint of the business world that pupils of the public schools are unable, when they enter business to add, subtract, mutliply, divide, and perform simple business operations quickly and accurately, must be met, and met squarely. A list of the minimum essentials of arithmetic, which children should be able to use without error by the end of the year, was discussed in detail and arrangements made whereby necessary teaching time can be secured for this result.

Experience proves the mistake of the idea that children can apply in life what is learned in school. It has been found that knowledge is not applied unless it is presented in actual situations. To learn to count, change accurately, children must actually count change in buying and selling; to learn to measure, children must actually measure real things; to learn bank operations and business operations, business situations must be brought into the schools.

The arithmetic teachers present at this meeting were, Miss Beattie and Mrs. Tait of Washington Street School, Miss Florence, Miss Adams and Mrs. Greenan, of Lee School.

TO OPEN OLD ENGINE HOUSE TO TOURISTS

Friendship Veterans' Fire Association Soon Ready

ORGANIZED IN 1774

Believe Place Will be Mecca For Hundreds of Tourists Visiting This City.

During the coming week it is expected that the old Friendship engine house on the west side of Alfred between King and Prince streets, will be opened to visitors. New sliding doors have arrived and they will take the place of the present big wooden door. They will be placed in position this week.

This house will be in charge of William H. Humphries, a veteran member of the company. Mr. Humphries perhaps knows more about the old engine house and its histoy than any member of the company.

When but fourteen years of age he was a member of this company and today he is seventy-four years old, and therefore, boasts of a membership of sixty years with the old company.

George Washington was an active member of the Friendship Fire Company and history tells us he helped to pull the old hand engine over the streets of Alexandria. The present engine, however, is not the original engine George helped to pull, it long since having gone to the scrap heap. If this enigne were in existence today it probably would be worth its weight in gold.

The old engine house recently has been greatly improved by the efforts of the Friendship Veterans' Fire Association, which association now has charge of the building. The second floor has been greatly improved and it furnishes a fine lodge and clubroom for its members. Electric lights have been placed in the building and fresh paint adds to the cheerful looking appearance of the place.

Many interesting pictures are scattered around the walls. On the east wall directly above the president's rostrum, is an old oil painting of George Washington. Among the other pictures are many taken during the past thirty years, of firemen of different companies most of which were taken after big parades. These pictures are very interesting and many of those, who were among Alexandria's leading citizens, have long since paid the debt of nature. There is a picture taken many years ago of ten Alexandria firemen and today there are but two living members and they are Robert T. Lucas and Louis Kraft.

For the visitors to see in this old house are the old hand engine, old helmets and water buckets, wooden fire axes and a host of other old time devices used in bygone days by the firemen of this company. The wooden fire axes, it may be explained, were used exclusively for parade purposes.

Flags also will prove interesting to the tourists visiting this house. That the engine house, which company was established in 1774, will be the mecca for hundreds of tourists after it is once opened is the belief not only of the members of the Friendship Veterans' Fire Association, but others as well. A small fee will be charged to help defray the expenses incident to keeping the place open for the public.

STATE NEWS

Lynchburg—Clarence Bruffey is in a critical condition in his home here as the result of being shot just above the heart Thursday by Jack Priest, a small boy, who was playing with a 22-calibre rifle. The accident occurred in Bruffey's store, in Campbell county, following which he was broght to his home here, The chooting was accidental.

Lynchburg—Locating the sites of four moonshine stills on the Tye river in Nelson county, the federal revenue raiding squad from Lynchburg was unable to find a still at either place, but about 1,000 gallons of beer was destroyed. Apparently the stills had been moved out of the way of the raiding party, but one of more arrests are expected to result from the raid.

Williamsburg,—Judge Alton B. Parker, of New York, will be among the prominenet men who will attend the installation of exercises on October 19 at the College of William and Mary, it was announced here today. Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, president of the college, will be formally inducted in office that day, the principal address being delivered by the President of the United States.

Staunton,—Abraham Hartman, an elderly man, residing near Laurel Hill, this county, has returned to his home after a stay in a local hospital. Mr. Hartman's sojourn in the hospital was occasioned by a chicken's peck. The fowl pecked Mr. Hartman in the eye. He came to Staunton and upon the advice of a specialist had the injured eye removed.

Fredericksburg—It gave Mrs. Harding "sort of a creepy feeling" to contemplate visiting the grave where Stonewall Jackson's arm is buried near here. "But I think I'd like to do it anyhow," the first lady declared.

So she and the President visited the scene. It had been overgrown with grass and weeds so that the little marker scarcely showed until the marines came down and cleared away the space, building a fence about it.

Richmond,—Although present day bootleggers believe they know every conceivable method of camouflaging liquor for transportation, they can learn a few things if they delve back into the period of the War Between the States, when, according to Mrs. M. V. Newton, contraband used to be shipped concealed in and labelled "Home Made Pies." Mrs. Newton, who is a pioneer in the efforts of organized temperance, and a prominent figure in the W. C. T. U., declares that during the war she discovered the "whisky pies" and unceremoniously destroyed them.

Richmond,—More than 250 delegates from all parts of Virginia will attend the annual convention of the Virginia division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, to be held at the Jefferson Hotel, October 11. A ritual of the organization will open the session, and will be followed by a memorial service led by Mrs. Newton McVeigh. Mrs. Norman V. Randolph will make a report on the library at this session, and a report on the Lee Mausoleum will be submitted by Miss Annie Mann, of Petersburg. The credential committees and the committee on activities will also be heard at this time Mrs. Cabell Smith, president of the Virginia division, will preside at the convention.

Charlottesville, Va.—Captain J. E. Davis of the United States Marine corps, in charge of one of the aeroplanes which engaged in the demonstration of night bombing on the historic Wilderness battlefield, became separated from the squad of flyers on their return to the Quantico base Saturday night and, losing his way in the darkness, flew 60 miles out of his course and was compelled to make a forced landing here.

The plane, with its supply of gasoline exhausted, landed about midnight in the top of an oak tree within the city limits. Strange to relate Capt. Davis escaped death, suffering only slight bruises.

Norfolk—The Smiths of Norfolk are coming into their own. The proposed reunion, or convention of that well known family is attracting nationwide interest. The Smiths here in Norfolk are reieving inquiries from their kinsfolk throughout the country—North, South, East and West. They all say they are coming. It seems quite certain now that the convention will not meet until next spring probably in April, since it was on the 26 of that month that Capt. John Smith landed at Cape Henry. The local Smith committee will meet the Chamber of Commerce next Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock to begin work on the program, which probably will cover two days. The working out of the pageant to be pulled off at Lafayette park will require several months of careful preparation, and involve considerable expense. This will call for 100 or more actors and actresses, the principals of which, they say, must bear the name of Smith.

ELECTION RETURNS

The Chamber of Commerce rooms will be open to the public tonight for the purpose of receiving election returns, and everybody is invited.

MISS KNOX SAYS EASTLAKE NOT MURDERER

Nurse Declares She Knows Husband Is Innocent of Crime

EVIDENCE FOUND

Bloody Clothing Thought to Be That Worn By Accused Man Found In Potomac.

Fredericksburg, Va., Oct. 4.—The first authentic interview since her dering Mrs. Margaret T. Eastlake ial Beach was obtained here late this afternoon from Miss Sarah E. Knox, 47 years old, Baltimore nurse, and intimate friend of the Eastlake family. She defended Eastlake in the most emphatic terms.

"They should let him go immediately," said Miss Knox, "because I know he is absolutely innocent of killing poor Margaret Eastlake."

Westmoreland county authorities investigating the murder announced today the finding of the front door key of the Eastlake home. The key was found at the fence over which Miss Knox said she climbed in pursuing the man she claimed committed the murder. The police say they have established that only one person went over the fence. All of the doors of the Eastlake home were found locked except the front door when the body of Mrs. Eastlake was discovered.

The trial has been set for the October term, which convenes Monday, October 24.

A coat, Miss Knox's ownership of which was said to have been established, was found in a clump of bushes near the Eastlake cottage. In this was found a letter alleged to have been written to Miss Knox by Eastlake, which was couched in endearing phrases. In it he said, "you will have to come down to be near me" and "Margaret is on to us and is pretty ashy." Other articles found in the coat showed Miss Knox at times had given financial aid to Eastlake. Among them was a promissory note for $600 to Miss Knox from Eastlake and a receipt for a motorcycle and side car Miss Knox is said to have presented to Eastlake.

It developed that when Eastlake was found soon after the discovery of Mrs. Eastlake's body, he was clothed in a freshly laundered white suit. Officers have been searching for Eastlake's soiled clothes. They decided to drag the Potomac River near Eastlake's house. This resulted in the discovery of several articles of clothing, all of which showed evidence of blood. The articles found included underwear and two handker chiefs covered with blood.

Miss Knox is a woman of remarkable nerve. She does not appear to be alarmed to the slightest degree over the murder charge preferred against her. She is taking a stimulant and is under the care of a physician. She declared she would be satisfied to be charged outright with the crime if the authorities would release Eastlake.

She discussed her days at Johns Hopkins Training School for Nurses, declaring that her diploma was signed by Dr. Henry M. Hurd when she was graduated in 1905.

GYMNASIUM CLASS

Y. M. C. A. Will Hold Classes Monday Afternoons And Evenings in Westminster Building

The Y. M. C. A. is planning a gymnasium class for young men and business men this winter. This announcement has just been made by the Association which has secured the Westminster Building for its physical department activities for the coming season.

Last season the Association had gymnasium classes for pioneers and ladies at the Young Peoples Building and the success of those classes encouraged the committee to attempt an enlarged program this fall. The young men's class, to include business and professional men, and a class for girl scouts was the result of this enlarged program.

The Westminster Building will be utilized throughout the entire afternoon and evening each Monday when the classes will be held continuously from three o'clock to nine. Mr. Wallace, the secretary of the local "Y", who has been a physical director for many years, will have charge of the classes.

The first class to be held will be that of the girl scouts which will

Bible Thought for Today

THE ONLY SAFE TRUST:—Some trust in chariots, and some in horses; but we will remember the name of the Lord our God.—Psa. 20:7.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

Washington, October 4—William Howard Taft has been sworn in as Chief Justice of the United States, the first man who ever held both the offices of President and Chief Justice in the history of the country. Mr. Taft is eminently satisfied with his new work, which is a realization of his lifetime ambition, and starts on his career as Chief Justice with all prospects of a happy and successful administration of the office.

Throughout the nation, in the South no less than elsewhere, there seems to exist a feeling of satisfaction that Mr. Taft will prove entirely capable of performing the duties of this high office and of keeping up the records of former Chief Justices. Lawyers all over the nation feel that the administration of the highest law of the land can safely be entrusted to his keeping.

Mr. Taft's elevation to the bench further reduces both the Southern and Democratic representation there, but in the last few years the spirit of the court has been so little of a partisan or sectional nature, and Mr. Taft has proved on so many occasions his lack of prejudice against the South that there is hardly a question but that under his leadership his court will prove as fair as could have been expected with a more equitable political and geographical division of the members of the court.

It will not be forgotten that it was almost the dying wish of Edward Douglas White, the late Chief Justice, and former Confederate soldier, that Taft be elevated to the Chief Justiceship. And it is certain that a man the legal attainments and broad perspective of Mr. White could hardly go wrong in his estimate that Taft will be a credit to the nation and the bench.

Lacking Tangible Results

Although the federal conference on unemployment has now been at work a week and although columns of space have been given the affair in all the newspapers, there seems so far to be lack of tangible results from the meeting that bodies ill for its ultimate success.

A dozen or so plans for the relief of the unemployed have been advanced, the latest being that of increasing the federal highway program for the purpose of providing work for the unemployed. This scheme is of course a direct violation of the spirit of the conference as outlined by President when he started it off by saying that it should not be expected that the jobless should be aided through the United States Treasury.

About everyone in the nation is hoping that some good will come out of the conference and the stagnant wheels of industry started to the extent that the unfortunate unemployed shall be relieved and given work but from this viewpoint it is hard to see how they are going to be relieved through any of the plans so far suggested and tentatively adopted by the conference.

As a general rule, such conferences result in a great deal of talk and a minimum of anything else. It had been hoped that this conference would be different, but if it is to be the results are not at this time apparent.

17 Against Treaty

A canvass of the situation in the Senate shows that probably not more than seventeen Senators will vote against ratification of the Harding peace treaty with Germany when it is put to a vote October 14. These Senators led by Carter Glass of Virginia, are Ashurst, Caraway, Culberson, Harris, Harrison, Heflin, King, McKellar, Overman, Reed, Sheppard Smith,, Stanley, Swanson, Watson of Ga., and John Sharp Williams. As can be seen they are all from the old south with the exception of King of Utah.

Senators Borah, LaFollette, and possibly Senator Norris of Nebraska will vote with the Democrats.

POLICE COURT

Jealousy Brings Two Into Court—Gamblers Forfeit Collateral

"This woman has been running after my husband," said a colored woman pointing to another one in the police court today when both were arraigned to answer a charge of disorderly conduct. Continuing the woman said: "I struck her with an umbrella when I met her on the street yesterday afternoon," and the other woman then told the court that she picked up a bucket of slop she had and dashed it on her opponent. Policeman Cline, who made the arrest, declared the woman who was the victim of the slop throwing was a sight. The court fined each of the women $2.

A colored man who had a razor for shaving was nabbed by Policeman Lawrence Padgett and let off with a fine of $5. Eight colored men charged with gambling, arrested by Chief Goods, Sergt. Campbell and Policemen Welker and Miller, forfeited collateral. A colored man arrested by Policemen Lawrence Padgett and Tolbot for non-support of his wife was ordered to pay her $8 a week or go to jail.

STAGE ALL SET FOR TOMORROW NIGHT

The big show is to have its premier tomorrow night. Keen anticipation of something unusual is reported by people of Alexandria today; and the seat sale thus far lends credit to the statement. "All Aboard" which is one of the very latest of John B. Rogers productions, is far superior to the usual entertainment staged by amateurs. Members of the boat club, which is sponsoring the affair, declare themselves to be quite satisfied with the generous patronage of local persons, so far; and a capacity house is expected.

The cast is familiar with all parts of the production and it is going to be a surprise for the people of Alexandria to witness a play that is really professional and put over in a professional way by amateurs. Reservations should be made immediately, as there are but few really choice seats to be obtained.

The leading parts are taken by the following persons: Billy Brady, a college boy, Allan Roberts; Dorothy Brady, his sister, Evelyn Howard; Johnny Thomas, another college boy, Edward Oliver; Beatrice Sloane, Billy's sweetheart, Mary Nalls, Mrs. Sloane, Beatrice's mother, Nina Fulton; Capt. Kidd, of the S. P. Florida, Jack Pohl; Jennie, a Swedish stewardess, Mary Hunt Roberts; Alexander C. Phome, a human truck, A. C. Rhodes; Barney Kell, a sailor, Everett James; Bull Works, another sailor, Leslie Devers.

HARDING ASKS AID FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

LOCAL HELP NEEDED

Says States and Municipalities Have Obligations Which they must Meet.

Washington, Oct. 4.—President Harding today, in an official appeal, called upon teh nation to mobilize to provide jobs for the jobless and other wise meet the needs of the army of unemployed that a winter of widespread distress may be avoided. He issued a public request to Goverorns and Mayors to form the organizations and take other steps recommended by the Unemployment Conference.

Public and private relief work throughout the country will be coordinated by a national committee sitting in Washington, the personnel and plans of which will be announced tomorrow by Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

The President's statement follows:

"The conference which I recently summoned to Washington to advise as to the unemployment situation has demonstrated that an unusual volume of unemployment exists and that pending the recuperation of trade the situation cannot be met, in due regard to our obligations and necessities, without a much more than usual organization throughout those States and municipalities where unemployment has reached considerable proportions.

"The conference has recommended a plan of organization which has had the support of commercial, manufacturing, professional and labor representatives of the country. It is highly necessary that more accurate knowledge should be had, through slch organization, of the volume and necessities of the unemployed. It is essential that the co-operation of all sections of each community should be brought into action behind such organization to provide work and assitance that we may pass through the coming winter without great suffering and distress.

"It is of national importance that every community should at once undertake such organization in order that the nation may be protected as a whole. Moreover, the thorough commitment to such a task is sure to start a thousand activities which will add to our common welfare.

"I therefore appeal to the Governors and Mayors of the nation that they should take the steps recommended by the conference.

"In order that there may be unity of action by all the forces which may be brought to bear, whether governmental or private, the unemployment conference is establishing an agency in Washington through which appropriate co-operation can be promoted and through which reports on progress and suggestions may be given general circulation and co-operation. I trust this agency will be supported in this endeavor.

Secretary oover said that the next step in carrying out the proposed emergency measures is definite organization by the Mayors in municipalities where this has not been done definitely and systematically. Employers and business men, he said, cannot surround the problem systematically until the Mayors have established strong emergency organizations with the municipalities behind it.

LIGHT VOTE BEING POLLED IN ELECTION

Election Characterized By Apathy. 1127 Ballots up To 2:30 P. M.

POLLS CLOSE AT 5:48

Confidently Predicted That New Form of Government Will Win Out By Substantial Majority.

The election today to decide whether or not Alexandria shall have the council manager plan form of city government or continue with the present form, is a very tame affair. An unusually light vote is being polled and the election throughout is characterized by apathy.

A total of 1127 votes had been cast up to 2:30 this afternoon, the largest vote being polled in the third ward.

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon the vote cast by wards follows:

First Ward	286
Second Ward	247
Third Ward	359
Fourth Ward	235
Total	1127

Those around the polls predict that not more than 1500 votes will be cast when the polls are closed at 5:48 o'clock this afternoon.

The proponents of the new form of city government predict the measure will carry by a substantial majority. The election officials also estimate that the new form of government will be carried by a good sized majority in every ward in the city.

It is one of the quietest elections ever before held in Alexandria. There is practically no one around the polls and the election officials had a hard time killing time today.

The voting was slow throughout the morning hours. It appeared brisk after the opening of the polls this morning till about 8 o'clock and since then it has been very slow, although there was a spurt of activity between the noon hour and 1 o'clock this afternoon. The election officials, however, predict that about half of the vote they expect to be cast will come in between 4 o'clock this afternoon nad the closing of the polls.

This city has a total registered vote of 3875 of which number approximately 1500 are women. It is expected that the complete returns will be known a short time after the polls are closed.

As heretofore stated in the Gazette there has been no organized opposiiton to the movement and consequently even those who personally oppose the change figure the new form will carry by a substantial majority.

In the event of the passage of the council-manager plan five councilmen will be elected next June. They are to be chosen at large. They assume office September 1, 1922, and elect a business manager. The councilmen elect a chairman who serves as mayor. Members of council will receive compensation for tehir services. The councilmen and business manager will operate the city's affairs and the old council will go out of existence September 1, 1922.

NEW YORK FANS ARE DIVIDED

New York, Oct. 4.—New York plunged into a sea of baseball argument today and at the same time divided itself for a rooters' war when the Yankees and Giants meet in World's Series combat at the Polo Grounds Wednesday afternoon.

On the subways, the elevated, the busses and in surface cars and hotel lobbies—everywhere—baseball fans were debating the respective merits of the various players. Whether the speed and the resourcefulness of the Giants can overcome, the punching power of the Yankees is one of the big points at issue. Yankee rooters expect big things of Babe Ruth, home run king, who is undoubtedly the greatest individual figure in the series.

Meanwhile the offices of the opposing clubs were making final preparations for the post season classic. At the Giants' headquarters all the tickets had been reserved, it was announced, and there talk centered about McGraw's pitching selection for the opening game.

"Tony is his best bet," declared an old time player. "Fred will make Ruth and Meusel and the rest of that Yankee slugging crowd pop 'em up to the infield. McGraw wants to take the first game, and Toney's the boy to do it."

Other giant followers thought McGraw might start Art Nehf, the young lefthander, and still others favored Phil Douglas, McGraw said nothing. Neither did Hughey Jennings nor Cozey Dolan, the coaches.

BACK TO THE BIBLE

The Gazette, in common with perhaps a thousand other newspapers in the United States, is printing a daily thought from the Bible, being a text taken from its pages, and printed with a star having the initial "S" in its centre, which stands for "scripture."

There can be no better foundation for right thinking than the Bible. Solomon said, "as a man thinketh in his heart so is he." A daily quotation from the Bible so placed and marked as to compel attention is bound to become on the part of the reader, a fixed habit. A drop of water dropping continually in the same spot will wear the hardest stone. From our information there are over a thousand papers now printing this daily text, and that means perhaps ten million readers who are drawing spiritual sustenance, that would otherwise renew their acquaintance with the inspired words of the Book of Books but once a week. The number of papers is increasing by leaps and bounds and this is certain to have the widest influence on the daily thought of the Nation. The Bible has been well called "the most democratic book in the world." As a factor in the uplift of humanity, and as a promoter of civilization, it has no equal.

We have just learned of one Alexandrian who made the statement only last week that these little daily texts had set him to reading the Bible again. May his tribe increase!

A GOOD IDEA

We congratulate the School Board and Superintendent Sweeney on their timely idea of sending the teachers in the primary grades to inspect the primary work in the Washington Schools last week. That it is stimulating and beneficial there can be no question. Unless a teacher can compare methods she is liable to become one-sided and teach in a circle. We are fortunate in Alexandria in having a large city so near that its only a matter of a few hours to go, examine into the teaching methods of a metropolis, and return. The comparisons made, the individual impressions exchanged, and the general broadening of the view-point are valuable almost beyond expression. The pupils, of course, are the great gainers in the end. We want and must have, only the best in education in our city, and this plan is certainly one of the most effective in its accomplishment.

Senator Trinkle's Speech

Colonel Anderson HAS CHANGED his views as to the Constitution of 1902, evidently to meet his political aspirations of today, for in 1908 when introducing Judge Taft in the city of Richmond he paid this eloquent tribute to the present Constitution:

"The reason urged for the Constitution of 1902 was that the adjustment of the problems which that instrument sought to settle would leave the people of this State free to divide upon economic question, and thus increase the influence of Virginia in national affairs and promote the political and industrial progress of her people. The adoption of that Constitution was the last step in the work of 40 years which has place the institutions of this State upon sound basis, has secured the supremacy of intelligence in our government, and has opened to the people all races and all classes an opportunity to reap and enjoy the reward of good citizenship."

Suffrage.

As to the question of Suffrage, there is a fundamental difference between Republicanism and Democracy. It may be that the Constitution of Virginia is drawn with too much detail, and I am not prepared to deny that fact; and if in the wisdom of the General Assembly, it should desire to submit to the people of the State a question of revision, I shall not oppose the same. It was, however, drawn by men of BOTH political faiths, elected by the free will of the people on the idea that they were best fitted to serve as members of the Constitutional Convention. It was promulgated and adopted in accordance with the wisdom of that body, and the only criticism that is heard of its method of promulgation comes from the Republican party, and it is scarcely to be hoped that its leaders would be satisfied with what was done the Constitutional Convention.

The Democratic party means to deal fairly with the colored race. It is principally to the Democracy of the State that the colored population has looked throughout the South for the advantages that have been given to them during the many years of reconstruction days, and to which must continue to look during the years to come.

Republicanism claims to have freed the negro, and it did play an important part in freeing him so far as personal liberty was concerned. But from the standpoint of political slavery they have ever held him bound and shackled in serfdom, and have used him wherever possible to the advantage of their political preferment.

Democracy has never held out false hopes to the colored race in this respect and this stand should appeal to them, rather than the deception and fraud that has been practiced upon by the Republican party, which now claims to have at last grown tired of their political companionship to the extent that it has established a "lily white party," and thrown out of the door the colored man in order to have, as the white Republicans say, "a house-cleaning of their political followers."

The Constitutional Convention of 1902 deliberately drew its suffrage clause for the purpose of restricting negro suffrage as far as the Constitution of the United States would allow it to do so, and because, incidental to that, some few of the illiterate white men were denied the right of ballot, the Republicans have never ceased to take advantage of this situation, to the disparagement, however, of their own party, and to the injury of the peace of the State at large. I should say that fully ten per cent or more of the white people of Virginia who have cared to register have been permitted, under our laws, so to do, and that a like proportion of the unregistered whites can register if they will.

In one breath the Republican party suffers anxiety over the negro in order to retain, if possible, his suffrage; in the other, they deliberately kick him out of their convention assembled in Norfolk in July last.

Col. Anderson and his party object seriously to the payment of the poll tax as a prerequisite to voting, which tax, I might remind him, is used solely for public school purposes, and, therefore, for the enlightenment and educational improvement of our citizenship. His party would do away with this requirement, along with other prerequisites for voting, thus throwing wide open to the uneducated and ignorant negro the broad door of our political life, and seriously menacing white-man supremacy in the "black belt" of our State, and probably in other portions as well.

The Virginian Pilot says that:

"With poll tax, advance registration, educational tests, all swept away, the way would be clear for a return of the dangerous political era to which precisely these laws put an end. There should be no mistake in Democratic ranks as to the direction in which Mr. Anderson's electoral reforms lead. They lead straight back to the political morass from which, by dint of superhuman effort, we have extricated ourselves. Why should we accept an invitation to go back to the swamp?

Yet when I am elected Governor of the Commonwealth, the negro may rest assured that at all times and under all circumstances, I shall endeavor to deal fairly and justly with him, and to do all in my power for his advancement, happiness and contentment.

The Democratic party placed upon the judges of this Commonwealth certain duties recognizing the high type of men filled those fair and impartial positions; that they would be just and fair in the discharge of their duties, ensuring complete and impartial administration of the law relating to franchise, and this splendid and commendable action upon the part of the Democratic party is the cause for attack upon the integrity of the judiciary of this state. There is no law which requires a man to vote, but the law of this State gives every man and woman the privilege to vote and the opportunity to qualify to do so.

It is claimed that persons applying to register were discriminated against. Certainly this charge is not generally true and cannot be sustained in view of the registration recently of numerous colored women in this State who offered under the enabling act to register to vote. Comment is made at the small vote cast in Virginia. One reason for this is that the Democratic party's administration of affairs of State have been so fair and so efficient that a large majority of the qualified voters endorsed it and would not take the trouble to go to the polls to vote, and Republican party seems to have felt in the same way. The Democratic party had been considerate of the colored people of the State by providing them with schools, insane hospitals, reformatories, etc. The one Congressional District in this State in which the largest vote is polled invariably, in a Congressional election repeatedly sends a Republican to Congress, certainly registration and election returns must be fair in that district.

Colonel Anderson and his party bemoan in thundering tones the fact that the veterans of the World War are called upon to pay their poll taxes, and may I not remind him that in order for them to be relieved of this poll tax requirement, it will be necessary for our Constitution to be changed. Little did the framers of that instrument dream of a World War, and the creation of new veterans in this country of our, and, therefore, no provision was made for this contingency.

I might further suggest, that the veterans of the World War themselves appeared before the General Assembly of Virginia, and requested that they be not relieved of the payment of the poll tax of $1.50 per y

Touching and bawling Republican oratory over this condition is far-fetched, unnecessary and only designed for political deception.

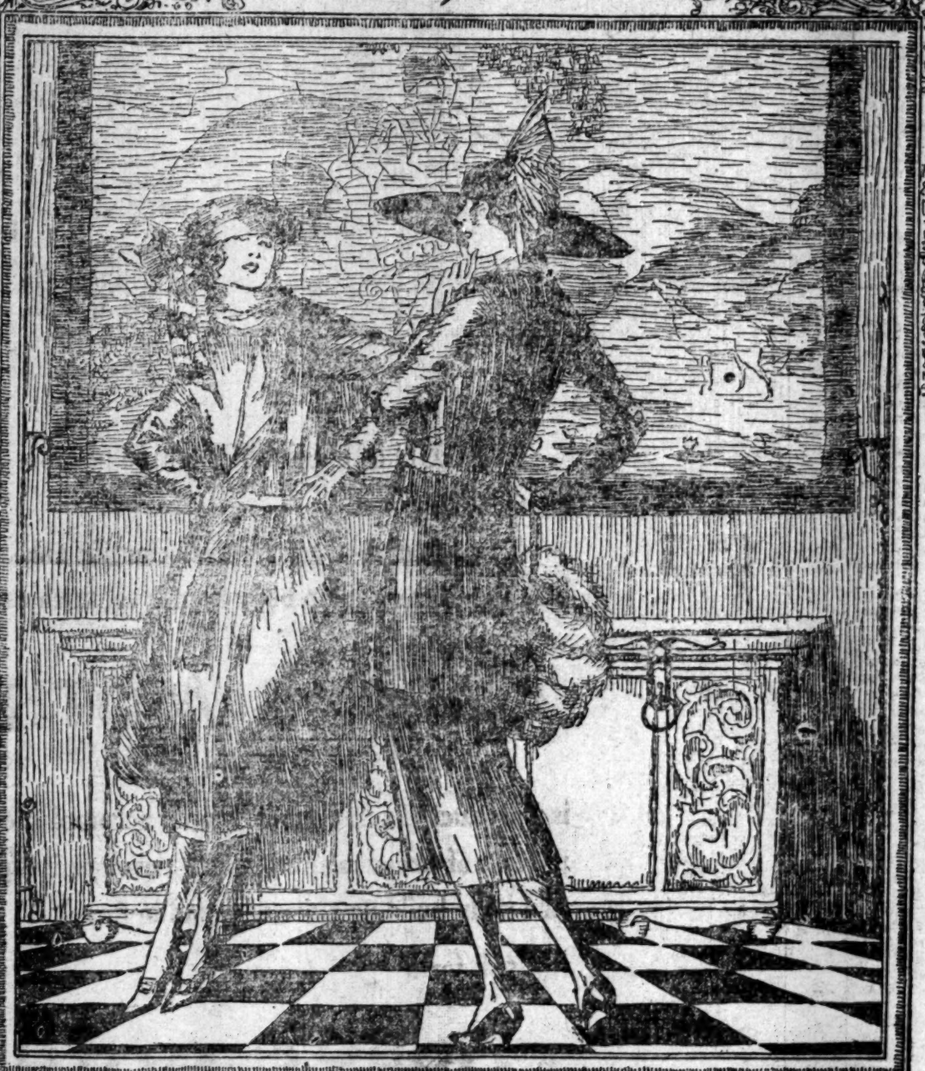
The Printzess Style Revue

The Week of October 3rd to 8th 1921



A tailleur showing of dominant interest

WE announce an authoritative style event for which this store has made elaborate preparations — the Printzess Style Revue.

We count it a distinction to present in this Style Revue the fall models of Suits and Coats designed and tailored by Printz.

They interpret the highest development of the mode tailleur, the latest style tendencies approved by the salons of Paris, adapted to the taste of the well-dressed American woman.

In them you find the elegance and beauty of custom tailored garments; the convenience and value of ready to wear.

"Custom made" offers no higher standards of design, of material or of tailoring than "Printzess made." Printzess tailoring emphasizes that precision of detail which alone makes style effective.

We believe you will take pleasure in attending the Printzess Style Revue. Whether you intend to purchase at this time or not, you will doubtless enjoy seeing these interpretations of the styles that Paris offers.

You will be surprised to find that Printzess coats and suits are moderately priced, no higher than many garments of questionable value and infinitely more desirable.

New features of the Autumn mode

OBSERVING all the essentials of the mode and yet attaining distinction — this is the art in which Printz designers excel. Charming examples of their ingenuity show many new features.

Tailored lines are accented by greater length — particularly in the suit coats.

Coat collars show a greater height; — chic designs of fur or cloth enrich the garments and afford protection.

And such diversity of color tones! — The softest shades of taupe deepening into darkest brown; rich blues, greys and always black. Then the beauty of Printzess material! Such velvety, deep-piled richness of fabric!

Democratic Campaign

Richmond, Va.—The Democratic campaign in Virginia opened up this week with a bang, led by Senator E. Lee Trinkle, of Wythe, democratic nominee for governor, and directed by Congressman H. D. Flood of the Tenth District, the newly elected state chairman. Already joint debates have taken place in several counties, in each instance rebounding to the credit of the Democrats. At Saluda, in Middlesex, September 2 the republican orator, Mr. Parsons assistant Federal district attorney declined to meet Mr. Flood in joint discussion, contenting himself with address in the courthouse building He was followed by Mr. Flood, speaking to an enthusiastic crowd which could not possibly have been accommodated within the courthouse walls. The offer of joint debate was made through W. D. Evans, democratic county chairman. It was declined. On two occasions Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis Otey, of Lynchburg, Republican candidate for state superintendent of public instruction, has entered into point discussion with democratic orators. Mrs. Otey's high water mark was reached at Lovingston in Nelson, September 26, when she began her address with the admission that she had cast her ballot in the last presidential election for Eugene Debs Socialist and Federal prisoner at Atlanta, held on charges of sedition against this government. Mrs. Otey on this occasion, contested honors with Josiah Hank, assistant attorney-general. In the debate were Commonwealths' Attorney Whitehead, of Nelson, and C. R. Jones, assistant federal district attorney. The debate went entirely to the advantage of the Democrats.

Co-incident with the above four handed discussion State Senator Samuel L. Kelley, former member of the general assembly, accepted a challenge from R. A. Anderson, of Smyth county, minority leader in the house of delegates, whom he engaged in Amelia Courthouse before an audience of 300. Judge Robert G. Southall adjourned court that the debate might be attended by all desiring to learn the issues of the fight. Mr. Anderson was badly worsted in the verbal exchange.

Trinkle, Flood and Hooker

On the night of September 29 Lee Trinkle, Democratic standard bearer, delivered his first address this campaign at Galax before a large crowd. In this speech Mr. Trinkle alluded briefly to the charge preferred against Colonel Anderson that in a speech at Farmville, he had said he felt ashamed of that star in the Federal Flag which respresented the politically oppressed state of Virginia. Following this address Colonel Anderson wired and wrote Mr. Trinkle, denying that he had given vent to any such expressions, and asking that Mr. Trinkle retract his reference to this incident. This Mr. Trinkle wrote Colonel Anderson he was unable to do, the information coming to him from what he regarded as entirely authentic and reliable sources. Judge George J. Handley, of the Fifth Judicial Circuit; W. T. Jones, Mayor of the town of Blackstone, and other reputable and responsible citizens have testified over their signatures that Colonel Anderson was personally heard by them to have expressed shame of Virginia's Star in the National Flag, which Colonel Anderson denied.

The key-note of the Democrats was struck September 27 at Clintwood, in Dickenson county, when Mr. Trinkle delivered his formal opening address which was regarded as a masterful effort. His remarks on this occasion were necessarily extended, covering as they did a summary of the past thirty-six years of Democratic rule in the Old Dominion, and a review of each and all of the state departments, down to date. The speech will probably become an historic document. It met with immediate and unreserved commendation from the entire Democratic press of the state.

At Halifax, September 26, Judge Barksdale adjourned court that the large crowd of citizens and voters gathered from all sections of the county could attend addresses delivered by Congressman H. D. Flood and J. Murry Hooker, of Patrick, Democratic nominee for congress from the Fifth District. The speech delivered by Mr. Flood on that has already been widely published throughout the state. He was preceded by Mr. Hooker who, in a ringing appeal scored ancient Republican rule in Virginia and prepaired the audience of between 500 and 600 for the address which followed from Mr. Flood.

Virginia's Star and Mr. Debs

It is becoming a matter of general comment throughout the state that the standard bearer of the Republican party in the present campaign should be widely quoted from different sections of Virginia by reputable citizens who affirm that they heard him in public addressed express a sense of shame that the star of Virginia should be in the Federal Flag and that Mrs. Elizabeth Otey, G. O. P. candidate for superintendent of public instruction, should admit openly upon the stump that in 1920 she cast her vote for Eugene Debs, United States convict now in the Atlanta prison under charges of sedition against the government. president. The question of what Colonel Anderson meant in his remarks relating to the star and the flag is no so much a matter of remark as is language attributed to him. The incident, to say the least, is regarded a capital political blunker and is said to have created something akin to panic in the ranks of the Republicans.

For just as the G. O. P. balloon was becoming prettily inflated with political propaganda and oratorical gas, along comes Colonel Anderson and shoots a star through the balloon to the consternation of Congressman Slemp and his other supporters and backers. And while a balloon is easily wrecked, it is mended only with difficulty, a fact which is said to be perculiarly true of the political gas bag. Taken all in all, and viewed from every angle, the campaign to date is more than satisfactory from a Democratic standpoint. Less than seven days of active operations by the Democratics have placed the Republicans definitely on the defensive. Instead of offering challenges for joint debate they are now declining them. A hurried conference between G. O. P. leaders was called in Richmond September 29 to take stock of the situation. As a result of these deliberations members of the Great General Staff it is believed that the main body of the Republican forces will find it necessary to fall back upon their "inner lines of defense." Such a retrograde movement is even now in progress. The peak of the Republican advance in Virginia has been reached and their flood tide is already on the ebb.

Those present at the Republican conference in Richmond on the afternoon of September 29th, besides Colonel Anderson, who hurried back from the Southwest, were Congressman Bascom Slemp, of the Ninth District: Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern Railroad; Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis Otey, of Lynchburg, (who voted for Debs); Harry K. Wilcott, of Norfolk, candidate for attorney-general, and others.

The conference is said to have considered funds and the flag, the star of which are fighting against Sisera.

CALOMEL MAY TURN ON YOU NEXT TIME

Next Dose You Take May Salivate and Start World of Trouble

Calomel is mercury; quicksilver. It crashes into sour bile like dinamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it dosen't stare your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day: it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and cannot salivate.

How To Get Relief From Rheumatism

Scientists Agree That the Cause Is Due to Waste Products In the Blood.

The blood is the means by which all tissues, muscles, ligaments and flesh of the body are directly or indirectly nourished. It is also thru the blood stream that worn-out tissues and waste products are cast out of the system.

When waste products accumulate, they are a menace to life. They cause a lowered vitality, many skin disorders and rheumatism. Genuine relief from the agonies of rheumatism can be had only by correcting the basic trouble—waste products.

Thousands and thousands of men and women during the past 50 years have cleared their blood of waste products with S. S. S. It is the ideal remedy for rheumatism, because it removes the poisonous waste matter which is causing the trouble. There are no bad after effects and the result is wonderful. Begin taking S. S. S. today and write for 56 page illustrated booklet, "Facts About the Blood"—free.

Personal medical advice, without charge, may also be had by sending a complete description of your case. Address Chief Medical Director, Swift Specific Co., 732 S. S. S. Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga. All good drug stores sell S. S. S.

Chilly rooms made comfortable in a few minutes

And you don't have to "drive" your coal heater

With delightful autumn days there always come chilly nights and frosty mornings. You dislike to start up the furnace or steam heater until it is actually necessary.

Next to the great convenience of the Perfection Oil Heater is its unusual economy. It burns for about 10 hours on a single gallon of kerosene which costs only about half what it did last year.

It is an expensive luxury to keep seldom-used rooms and hallways heated all the time. Hundreds of thousands of families will cut down their coal bills this fall and winter by using the Perfection as an auxiliary heater. Keep the house warm with the coal heater but use the Perfection to make the living rooms comfortable.

The Perfection Oil Heater placed in front of an exposed door or window will make drafts warm and healthful.

Your hardware, housefurnishing or department store probably carries Perfection Heaters. Ask the salesman to explain their simple, sturdy construction and the smokeless wick adjustment.

"SHIP AHOY!"

What Happened in Des Moines No. 5

Des Moines people decided, after a few days of bus service, that a bus was all right for folks as vigorous as Jack Dempsey.

The busses were literally jammed with strong, husky men who were able to fight their way inside.

Women, children, weak and aged persons usually found themselves waiting on the curb as the buses moved away.

Newspapers—including some that had encouraged bus service—plead fervently with automobile owners to carry passengers free. One newspaper gave prizes to motorists for carrying passengers.

Inadequate fares and unrestricted bus competition forced the Des Moines street railway to abandon all city service—over 92 miles of lines—on Aug. 4, 1921.

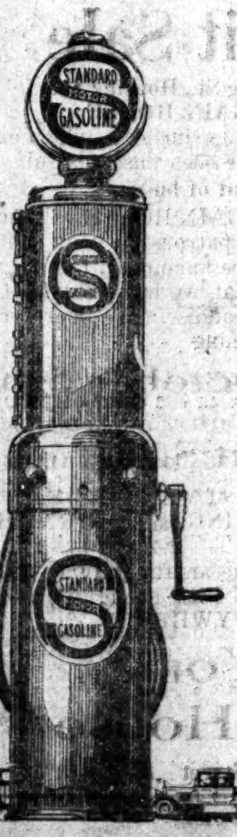
Gasoline Varies
—Just as Crude Oil Does



ORDINARY gasoline varies as widely in its qualities as the crude petroleum from which it is refined.

Many grades of commercial gasoline are one-sided—advantageous perhaps for one purpose, such as quick starting, but lacking in the all-around balance that means consistently smooth, economical running. This one-sidedness may be traced to the lack of diversity in the basic crude.

The improved "Standard" Motor Gasoline is the result of our access to widely varying sources of supply—covering almost every developed field—and our many years of refining experience. Its perfect balance you may prove for yourself in your own motor. Next time you need gasoline go to the nearest dealer and ask for "Standard." It costs no more than any other. Keep filling up with "Standard" long enough to prove its qualities.

You will soon notice that your motor runs sweeter and cleaner. You will find that you get more mileage per gallon and have less of the more annoying motor troubles. Your spark plugs and valve seats can't carbonize so quickly when practically every drop of the fuel burns clean.

You can now buy this improved motor fuel wherever you motor. It will pay you to fill your tank with it today.

His unfailing courtesy, his tact, and his many acts of kindness during his command at the camp have made him a host of friends whose best wishes attend him in his new duties.

MAYO FOUNDATION DIRECTOR FAVORS RETAINING MEDICAL SCHOOL AT UNIVERSITY

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 4.—Dr. Louis B. Wilson director of the Mayo Foundation for medical education and research, professor of pathology in the University of Minnesota and a recognized authority on matters of medical education has refused to give his unqualified endorsement to the majority report of the Medical Commission of Virginia but favors the retention of the medical school at the University of Virginia. Dr. Wilson suggests the establishment in Richmond of a great graduate school which would draw its students from medical schools throughout the country. He believes the plan if followed would within ten years put Virginia at the head of the other states in medical education. His views were expressed in some detail in a recent letter to Dean Theodore Hough.

Dr. Wilson's letter stated that he had expressed the same views to Dr. Stuart McGuire, of Richmond, who had requested his opinion on the majority report of the medical commission. Dr. Wilson stated that after reading the majority report he could not give his endorsement to removing the medical department from the University of Virginia.

The head of the Mayo Foundation paid a high tribute to the medical graduates of the University stating that "the Mayo Clinic had never received a mediocre graduate student from the institution. Dr. Wilson is another expert in medical education who recognizes the value of university associations in professional studies and he laid much stress on this phase of the University of Virginia men who came under his observation.

"Every man we have received from the University of Virginia seems to me to have greatly beenfitted by his University associations, in other words to have thoroughly caught the University spirit—a spirit of thoroughness in fundamentals, of truth from the truth's sake, and indeed of real cuture in things outside of as well as within medicine."

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM

To Play the Strong Team of Business High Today—Tie Virginias 13 to 13

The Alexandria High School football team, Saturday, played a team representing the Virginia Athletic Club on the Shipyard field and tied them with the score of 13 to 13. This was merely a practice game but it is not likely that the High School boys will meet a much harder team this season. In this game the High School team was greatly handicapped by the absence of two of its best line players, Jack and Marion Pohl.

In all the High School team shows up well this year having ten of last year's letter men back in the line up. Hayman, in tackle seems to have added much to his already great speed in the defensive end of the game. The back line boys are also showing up much better than they did a year ago. Travers in fullback, Midkiff in quarter back, Dreifus and Suthard in the half back positions are all showing more pep and punch. Captain Pettitt is back in his old position on left-end with Fletcher, a freshman, on the other. "Boob" McDermott is still clinging to his place in the center of the mob. J. Pohl and Hayman are still taking good care of the tackle positions. For guard there are many contestants. Nowland, Beach, Bullocks and M. Pohl are all going well and threaten to find a good pair of guards among themselves. Fletcher and Dyson are fighting over the right end which was left vacant by the graduation of Myers and Houston. Many other worthy aspirants are rapidly progressing in the art of foot-ball under the tutorship of coach "Jimmy" Hasson.

The opening of the football season proper come today on Baggett's field at 4 o'clock when the A. H. S boys pit their strength and skill against the strong team of Business High, of Washington. This game is sure to be a good one, and the fans will do well to see this opening battle

AH! EPSOM SALTS LIKE LEMONADE NOW

You can now buy epsomsalts without that awful taste and pausea, by asking your druggist for a handy package of "Epsomade Salts" which looks and acts exactly like epsom salts, because it is real epsom salts combined with fruit derivative salts, giving it the thaste of sparkling lemonade.

Take a tablespoonful in a glass of cold water whenever you feel bilious, headachy of constipated. "Epsomade Salts" is the much talked of discovery of the American Epsom Association.

WASHINGTON CHILDREN COMPLETE FIRST GRADE IN ONE YEAR

One of the many valuable things learned by the Alexandria first grade teachers on their visit to the Washington Schools Friday was how children can complete the first grade in one year. In practically all cities of any size and in the most progressive rural districts it is customary to complete the first grade in one year. But too large a number of Alexandria children spend two years in the first grade. To complete this grade in one year, children must read from 6 to 15 books a year. Our children have only three books a year. Also, the number of pupils to a teacher should not exceed 45 at the most. Our primary teachers have one hundred each and do not have their afternoons for coaching backward pupils or for preparing work for the next day. It was proved to our teachers, on their visit to Washington, that children who complete the first grade in one year can read without difficulty in the second reader in the beginning of the second grade.

The forenoon of the first grade teachers' visit to the Washington Schools was spent in observing work in the first and second grades, after which the teachers were met in the office by Miss Hardy, Primary Supervisor of Washington, who discussed with the teachers the important problems of the primary grades.

Those making the trip to Washington were, Miss Mary D. Pierce, local supervisor, Misses Davis, Moncure and King of the Lee School, Mrs. Woodward of Washington street school and Mrs. Douglas of West End School. Mrs. Haydon accompanied the party to observe physical training work and pronounced the day most helpful.

meet at 3.30 in the afternoon and all classes will begin Monday afternoon, October 10. The young men's class will be at 5.15 which is the standard class hour for business and professional men all over the country in Associations. The Pioneers will meet, as they did last year, at 7 o'clock in the evening. The ladies class will be at 8 o'clock.

All girls attending the girl scouts' class must be members in good standing of the local scout troop for girls and vouched for by Capt. Jones, who is in chareg of the troop. The men who attend the men's class must be members of the Association, which in Alexandria means a contributing member, since there are no building priveleges. The Pioneers who attend must be members of good standing of troops representing a local Sunday, Salvation Army or similar religious organization. They must also have an active leader who will accompany the members of his troop each night from the meeting place to the gymnasium and return. Troops without active leaders will not be entitled to enrollment until the leader is secured.

The ladies class will be in charge of the Ladies' Auxiliary and they will charge a small fee for equipment. It is believed that this will be the beginning of a splendid course in physical training that will eventually include all the possibilities of such important work.

The gymnasium classes will all be held in the splendid auditorium of the Westminster Building, which is admirably adapted to such work. The committee of management of the building is comtemplating the addition of extra showers to the one already in the building, and it would seem as if Alexandria was just on the verge of a real course in physical education.

The Center of Attraction

EVERYTHING goes on downtown within two minute's walk of WALLIS'. Eat with greater leisure and more heartily, for the food here re-awakens appetite. DRESSMAKER MADE WELL

Followed a Neighbor's Advice and Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Vernon, Tex.—"For three years I suffered untold agony each month with pains in my sides. I found only temporary relief in doctor's medicine or anything else I took until my husband saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I mentioned it to a neighbor and she told me she had taken it with good results and advised me to try it. I was then in bed part of the time and my doctor said I would have to be operated on, but we decided to try the Vegetable Compound and I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a dressmaker and am now able to go about my work and do my housework besides. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial as I am always glad to speak a word for your medicine."—Mrs. W. M. STEPHENS, 1103 N. Commerce St., Vernon, Texas.

Dressmakers when overworked are prone to such ailments and should profit by Mrs. Stephen's experience.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., about your health. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and kept strict confidence.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of my dear father, MARCELLOUS JACKSON, who departed this life one year ago today, October 4, 1920.
Some may think you are forgotten,
And the wound is nearly healed,
But little do they know the sorrow
That lies within our hearts concealed.
But since you could no longer stay,
To cheer us with your love,
We hope to meet you some sweet day
In that great world above.

Next week is Fire Prevention Week in the schools of Alexandria. President Harding has issued a proclamation naming October 10 as Fire Prevention Day in celebration of the anniversary of the great Chicago fire.

The schools will emphasize the study of fire prevention, on account of its dangers, cost etc., and much information of an educational value centers around this study.

VIRGINIA A. C. DEFEATS SOUTHERN A. C.

In a closely contested game, Sunday, the Virginia A. C. defeated the Southern A. C. of Washington by the score of 19 to 10, on the Shipyard Field. Owing to the warm weather the game wasn't as snappy as it it will be in a few Sundays, but it was sure a clean battle from start to finish. The Southern A. C. had been practicing hard under Coaches Litkus and Marks for this game and the Virginias knew they had played a good game when it was over. Peyton and Yates made the touchdowns for the winners, and Nugent kicked over. Captain Howard of the Virginias did some good breaking up of passes, thereby causing the Southern lads to lose what would otherwise been consistent gains, if not touchdowns. Next Sunday the Virginias old rivals, the Seamen Gunners, will play a visit to the Shipyard Field, and there is every promise of a battle royal, and a good game. Game will start at 3.00 P. M.

How to Be Healthy

The Crusade of the Double Barred Cross
Practical Talks on Disease Prevention

Prepared by the
VIRGINIA TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION

(Practically every adult person is infected with tuberculosis. This infection need not be a source of danger. To keep the latent infection from becoming disease, bodily resistance must be kept at its best. This series of articles shows you how to keep healthy.)

BUILDING RESISTANCE

PROF. ALLEN K. KRAUSE, M. D.,
Johns Hopkins University Medical School, Baltimore.

MAN is the only animal that habitually and unnecessarily uses his bodily functions to excess—in overwork, overplay, overexercise, overworry, in prolonged mental and emotional stress, in unnatural hours of activity without rest. And being organized into communities, men herd together and thus establish continual contact with one another and become unduly exposed to one another's infections.

In most men's bodies are little growths of tissue called tubercles in which lie concealed the germs of tuberculosis. These tubercles form spherical walls around the germs, called tubercle bacilli, and thus imprison the germs. As long as the wall is strong and unbroken the germs cannot spread; they cause no illness and are no more to be feared than a common wart or a mole in the skin.

If the tissues around the tubercles function normally, these walls tend to remain strong and so tight that few or no bacilli can make their way out of them and spread throughout the body. But too prolonged activity of the body as a whole, or of the part in which may be the tubercles, will in general bring about conditions that favor the weakening of the tubercle wall and the emergence of bacilli.

We heal tuberculosis by rest—of a knee, of the lungs, of the whole body. We become ill with tuberculosis by reason of overstrain. Other diseases, especially those that cause inflammations and congestions in the lungs, whip up the physiological activities of the body and throw a strain upon the walls of tubercles. So do certain bodily activities, like repeated and long-continued work without sleep, pregnancy, childbirth, dissipation, etc.

The point where activity becomes overstrain is an individual affair. The miner, the broker, the farmer, the school teacher, might every one of them become fatigued by the other's ordinary labor. The phlegmatic and the irritable, the beefy and the wiry, respond very differently to the same stimulus, whether this be play, labor, exercise or dissipation. Every man's point of fatigue is his own, registerd in his own consciousness by sensations that all have experienced. Every rational man knows when he is tired or experience soon teaches him what will make him tired. And no rational man should push himself beyond this point unless he must.

To reduce exposure to all infections to a minimum and to balance one's activities so there will always be a healthy surplus on the credit side of rest, nay, more, a good reserve to draw upon in time of need—this is building up resistance. At thirty we build it a little differently than at twenty, at forty again differently than at thirty; there is a different proportion of details, yet principles and details remain the same.

Food, clean air, adequate clothing, decent hours of sleep, conserve and promote health—the normal body. But the normal machine was built for one man power and a too persistent effort to squeeze out more will sooner or later mean an overheated boiler and outworn gears; rusted, roughened and thinned out metal, and then—the collapse or the explosion. Then may an insignificant little tubercle become ablaze.

THE Wishing Fairy's Butterfly carried her on its back all the way from the End-of-the-earth to the World where Humans live. It was a very long trip and the little Butterfly's wings were quite tired. So it was glad when they arrived. It was also thirsty and it immediately fluttered to a primrose, uncurled its long tube-like tongue, shot it deep into the heart of the flower and drank a big drop of honey. One whole drop is an enormous amount for a Butterfly!

During her trip to the World the Fairy had thought and thought of her promise to Mrs. Egret . . . to make Humans stop their cruelty. How could she ever accomplish such a thing? How could she keep that promise? She didn't know, yet keep it she must and would! Surely she would find some way! Surely!

Mrs. Egret's sad experience lingered in her memory and her words still rang in her ears. Stella thought about what the beautiful bird had told her of the cruel way Humans slaughtered Mother Egrets for their lovely white plumes that they only have when their babies are tiny and need their mother's love and care. She imagined the suffering of the Egret babies as they wait and wait for the mother who never returns to them, the Mother whom Humans have killed, that they may have white plumes for their hats. Stella felt that she could hear their frightened little baby cries as they slowly starved to death. She could almost see the look in their dying eyes!

"It's too terrible!" Stella said to herself, and her tiny hands were tightly clenched. "I will find a way! I will!"

She looked around and saw that she was in a wonderful garden. Flowers were swaying and nodding in the breeze, and the hum of many bees sounded like faint music. The Fairy smiled as she listened; but the smile faded from her face. She had heard something besides the humming of the bees and the happy song of the crickets. Again she listened and again she heard the same sound. A sigh! Yes, the little Fairy was positive that she had heard a deep sigh, so, very slowly she walked in the direction from which the sound had come, when to her amazement she saw a woman lying on some moss in the shade of a large pine tree.

The woman was asleep, but Stella was sure she had been weeping, for tears still glistened under her lashes. In one hand she held a child's little shoe—one that many, many times had covered some baby foot—it still bore five small toe marks on its soft leather. Really, the tiny shoe scarce looked empty!

The woman's arm was tenderly thrown around a doll. It was a battered doll and very mussed, but such a nice comfortable one: for how clearly it showed that it had often been hugged by baby arms! One could easily see how dearly it had been treasured. A broken leg had been ever so carefully mended with a narrow strip of courtplaster and somebody had darned its wee dress in several places.

Stella drew a little closer, when like a flash she suddenly understood all about everything.

"Poor soul!" she softly murmured to herself, "that doll, and that little old shoe belonged to her baby. And the woman was crying before she fell asleep . . . that was because her baby is dead."

"Now you'll dream a happy dream," the Fairy whispered: "you'll dream that you are holding your baby in your arms—the little baby that you think you lost. But you didn't, woman, dear; you only thought you did. We never lose those we love, even when they die; for they live in our thoughts—if our thoughts are HAPPY ones."

And as Stella stood and watched the woman's quiet face with its happy little dream smile, she suddenly knew just how she would be able to keep her promise to Mrs. Egret.
